Powered by Numerated, the Lending Suite Front Office solution employs digital and dynamic loan applications with pre-filled data, guided workflows, secure document collection and a communication channel to simplify borrower and lender experiences. Auto-generated loan documents, e-Signatures and funding via API improve closing rates for the back office. A continuous flow of data and process automation throughout the Lending Suite ensures the front and back offices collaborate more effectively.

While the Lending Suite is most powerful as a whole, each component can be used independently for those looking for effective point solutions to handle the front office, underwriting and credit assessment, loan operations or loan monitoring.

"Numerated is thrilled to partner with a company known for its excellence in credit risk management, underwriting and loan monitoring like Moody's Analytics," said Dan O'Malley, CEO of Numerated. "Their integrated data and analysis are unparalleled in the industry, and their shared vision of providing an incredible user experience to their clients resonates. We cannot wait to transform commercial lending by their side, removing manual work where possible and delivering exceptional analysis and process."
