No one else could do what John & Logan did at Lyft. Create a lasting service and brand while simultaneously fostering a culture which created multiple mission driven founders. Forever grateful. Onwards!

Congrats!

Love the name Yes&! It's a mindset that's shaped how I work with leaders and teams. Add a dash of Wonka's golden-ticket suspense and a spoonful of Mary Poppins' "supercalifragilisticexpialidocious" possibility, and I can't wait to see what scene comes next. Eager to see how others get to Yes& with you.

PS. Waving 🙌 to David Risher too...always cheering on what you're building!

Your company and the culture y'all created helped me break into tech and understand what a welcoming work environment is. I learned a lot from you both for creating such an impact.

Thanks John Zimmer for the past ~20 years of blood, sweat, and tears building Zimride and then Lyft! Logan and you built a company where I could be myself while delivering impact to drivers and riders - for that I'll always be grateful.

Also, thank you for your mentorship when we were building the B2B Delivery business - I'm excited to hear more about Yes& and ways where I can help!

Lyft is one of my career highlights and I still stay in touch with many folks there! Even used you all in an example about what great servant leadership looks like! Good luck on Yes&, can't wait to hear more.
