Dara Khosrowshahi is the CEO of Uber, where he has more than 70 countries around the world since 2017.

Dara was previously CEO of Expedia, which he grew into several companies. A seasoned executive with a background in mobile, he oversaw a number of acquisitions that bolstered Expedia's presence in mobile, which now accounts for more than half of Expedia's employees and named one of the Highest Paid Executives. He was promoted to Expedia CEO after serving as the Chief IAC, which purchased Expedia in 2002 and spun it off in 2005. He was also instrumental in the expansion of IAC's portfolio of travel brands.

Before joining IAC, Dara served as Vice President of Allen & Company and spent a number of years as an analyst. He currently serves on the Board of Directors of Expedia and Catalyst.org and was previously on the board of the New York Times Company. He's a passionate advocate for refugees in crisis around the world, having himself left Iran during the Iranian Revolution at the age of 9.

Dara grew up in Tarrytown, New York, and received his bachelor's degree in engineering from Brown University.
