

Global payments, reimagined and redefined

Veem is reinventing and redefining the way small businesses pay and get paid across the globe.

How we started

In 2014, our co-founder and CEO Marwan Forzley wanted to level the playing field for small businesses, his mission was to provide small businesses access to enterprise-grade payment technology in an easy-to-use platform, which led to the creation of Veem. The name Veem stands for Very Easy Exchange of Money and reflects our dedication to making business payments as simple as buying a cup of coffee.

Veem becomes a Licensed Money Transmitter

Veem acquired its first Money Transmitter license in 2016. As of today, we have obtained 46 state licenses, SOC2 certification and PCI-DSS compliance. Learn more.

Veem in Times Square

In 2018, Veem appeared in Times Square, New York. This is a monumental achievement not just for Veem, but for our industry. It speaks to the need for innovation, globalization, and the power of small business. Learn more.

Veem partners with CitiBank

In 2021, Veem started working with Citi, empowering companies, big and small, with innovative solutions that are often only available to larger businesses. Learn more.

Veem teams up with Visa

To provide businesses with quicker access to cash, we joined forces with Visa and Marqeta in 2023, expanding Veem's real-time payment capabilities. Check our new Virtual Card for more information.

Where we are now

Fast forward to today, Veem now services over 1.1M clients and has sent over $10B in payments in the last decade. Backed by reputable financial partners around the world, we help businesses, individuals and accountants pay and get paid easily in over 100 countries, in 80+ currencies.

Our culture

Veem's culture is a global symphony of innovation and collaboration, where inclusivity is not just valued but celebrated. As a company spanning continents, we thrive on diverse perspectives, shaping an environment that redefines what's possible.

At Veem, I've walked in the shoes of small business owners, feeling the weight of their challenges. Veem was born from the idea of not just addressing these pain points, but erasing them. We're here to make your journey smoother, transactions easier, and your dreams bigger. Let's navigate the global business landscape together.

Marwan Forzley
CEO & Founder

Over the last decade at Veem, I've experienced an incredible journey of growth and innovation. The company's commitment to employee development and a supportive culture has kept me here, making Veem more than just a workplace—it's a family.
